“Healthy Environment and Healthy Foods for Healthy First Nations”

Studying the safety and nutritional benefits of the diets of over 100 First Nations communities across Canada, this comprehensive ten year (2008-2018) study will address unanswered questions concerning the environmental health of First Nations people. Partners include the Assembly of First Nations, the University of Northern British Columbia, Université de Montréal and Health Canada.

For further information visit: www.fnfnes.ca

Funding for this study was provided by Health Canada. The information and opinions expressed in this publication are those of the authors / researchers and do not necessarily reflect the official views of Health Canada.